PREFACE

Realizing the need for a reference list that will help in the selection of a story for the holiday story hour, I have compiled this index in the hope that it will prove serviceable to all those who are active in work with children.

The selection is based primarily on reliable compilations and include old favorites, well known classics, and more recent stories.

The first part is a subject arrangement by holiday; the second is a straight alphabetical title index with reference to the holiday under which the story is to be found.

The bibliography includes all the sources from which the stories have been selected. Dates of publication and prices have not been quoted because of the various editions and the constant changes in prices.
